ITEM 8.01 Other Events.

On January 8, 2010, Eastman Kodak Company ("Kodak") and Samsung Electronics Company, Ltd., Samsung Electronics America, Inc., Samsung Telecommunications America, LLC, and Samsung Electronics GmbH (hereinafter collectively referred to as "Samsung") executed a settlement agreement relating to their outstanding patent infringement disputes (the "Settlement Agreement"). Pursuant to the Settlement Agreement, the parties filed joint motions to terminate the respective patent infringement proceedings pending before the U.S. International Trade Commission and, subject to the satisfaction of certain conditions, will file dismissals in the patent infringement disputes pending between the parties in the U.S. Federal District Court for the Western District of New York and in the German courts.

On November 17, 2008, Kodak filed a complaint with the U.S. International Trade Commission ("ITC") against Samsung Electronics Co., Ltd., Samsung Electronics America Inc., and Samsung Telecommunications America LLC for infringement of patents related to digital camera technology. A hearing before the ITC was concluded on October 16, 2009 and an Initial Decision was issued by the Administrative Law Judge on December 17, 2009, finding Kodak's asserted patents valid, enforceable, and infringed. Kodak requested a limited exclusion order preventing importation of infringing devices, including certain mobile telephones and wireless communication devices featuring digital cameras. On December 23, 2009, the Administrative Law Judge issued a determination recommending that the ITC enter a limited exclusion order excluding Samsung's infringing products from entry into the United States and a cease and desist order to prevent the sale and distribution of Samsung's infringing products in the United States.

On February 17, 2009, Samsung Electronics Company Ltd. and Samsung Electronics America Inc. filed a complaint with the ITC against Kodak for infringement of certain of their patents alleged to be related to digital camera technology. The hearing before the ITC was concluded on October 1, 2009. Samsung is seeking a limited exclusion order preventing importation of devices found to infringe the asserted patents.

On November 17, 2008, Kodak filed a complaint against Samsung Electronics Company Ltd., Samsung Electronics America Inc., and Samsung Telecommunications America, LLC in Federal District Court in Rochester, New York, for infringement of patents related to digital camera technology (the "WDNY Litigation"). The Company is seeking unspecified damages and other relief.

On November 17, 2008, Kodak commenced a lawsuit in Landgericht Düsseldorf, Germany against Samsung Electronics GmbH for infringement of a patent related to digital camera technology (the "Kodak German Action"). The Company is seeking unspecified damages and other relief. On April 30, 2009, Samsung Electronics GmbH commenced a nullity action in the Federal Patent Court in Munich, Germany seeking to invalidate the Kodak patent asserted against Samsung in the Kodak German Action (the "Samsung German Nullity Action").

No monetary consideration was paid under the Settlement Agreement. Pursuant to the Settlement Agreement, Kodak and Samsung agreed to file joint requests that the ITC terminate its proceedings pursuant to the complaints filed by Kodak and Samsung against each other. Subject to the satisfaction of certain conditions, Kodak and Samsung also agreed to file necessary dismissals in the WDNY Litigation, the Kodak German Action and the Samsung German Nullity Action.

Separately, Kodak and Samsung have entered into an agreement that includes a technology cross license which is royalty bearing to Kodak (the "Cross License"). Kodak received a non-refundable payment from Samsung in December 2009 that has been credited toward Samsung's royalty obligation. The Cross License is referenced in the press release attached to this document as Exhibit (99.1).

The Settlement Agreement and the Cross License become effective upon approval by the International Trade Commission of the joint request for termination of Kodak's ITC action against Samsung referred to above.

Kodak, Samsung Enter Into Technology Cross License

Agreement Is Royalty-Bearing to Kodak

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Jan. 11 – Eastman Kodak Company (NYSE: EK) announced today that it has entered into a technology cross license with Samsung Electronics Co Ltd. that will allow each company access to the other’s patent portfolio.

The license agreement, which provides significant benefits to both companies, is royalty bearing to Kodak. The company received a payment from Samsung in December that has been credited toward its royalty obligation. Additional financial details were not disclosed.

The companies also entered into an agreement to file joint requests for the termination of patent infringement proceedings before the U.S. International Trade Commission, and to settle their patent infringement lawsuits against each other, which are pending in U.S. District Court for the Western District of New York and in the German courts. Both the settlement of the litigation and the license agreement become effective upon approval by the International Trade Commission of the joint requests for termination. The ITC is expected to make its determination by the end of January 2010.

“We are pleased to have reached a mutually beneficial arrangement that advances the interests of Kodak and Samsung and which validates the strength of Kodak’s intellectual property portfolio,” said Laura G. Quatela, Chief Intellectual Property Officer, and Vice President, Eastman Kodak Company.
